was in the bath, and then, as the grand duchess emerged therefrom covered from her neck to her feet with a thick coating of mud, took a sangebut of her with a kodak, which she invariably carries about with her. She seems to have done this without the knowledge of the grand duchess, and the first thing that the latter knew about jit was when she was presented with a picture, representing her as a species of sombre, or rather plebaid Verus, emerging not from the blue sea, but from the repulsive Schwalbach mad.

There is nothing absolutely improper about the portrait, since the mud may be said to have formed: a species of close-fitting garment, still at the same time, it is not a very pleasant thing for an attractive woman such as the grand duchers may claim to be, to be thus portrayed. To make matters worse, the crown princess was so inordinately amused with the success of the pleture, that before her sister knew anything about it, she struck off a number of proofs and distributed them broadcast among the numerous relatives and friends of the grand duchess lit is scarcely necessary to add that they are no longer on speaking terms, the grand duchess being the last person in the word to understand or appreciate the joke. In fact the origin of all her troubles with her husband has been due to the laster's persistence in making her the invariable but of those practical jokes to which she is addicted. Many of these jokes have been in the nature of cagre to which she is addicted. Many of these pokes have been in the nature of coarse horse play, to which any high spirited woman possessed of any sense of dignity would object, and sympathy has been universally on the side of the grand duchers in her matrimonial differences with her husband. grand duchers in her matrimonial dif-ferences with her husband.

PRIZE MONEY. Some of the Iniquities of the Law and its Injustice.

Washington Post: It appears, upon authority which pretends to be solid, that the prize money resulting from our naval victories is soon to be distributed.

The most popular estimate is that the III be declared about Christmas, and the prevailing guess is that the swag will be awarded about as follows:

Admiral Sampson, $100,000; Admiral Dewey, $3,000; Admiral Schley, $5,000; the captains in Sampson's fleet, each $1,000; the captains in Dewey's fleet, each $1,000; the men, on an awarage, $165.
There-are other details, fnore or less bewildering, and, of course, everything depends upon the action of the prize courts. If these act as defiberately and as refuctantly in awarding sinister and unworthy prizes as our government ma-stead of patriots.

If anything more were needed to condemo it in the minds of thoughtful men, we need only consider its operation in this particular case. Think of a system of mere pecuniary reward under which, in this war of ours, Sampson receives $100,000 and Dewey only $9,000! It is not possible to imagine anything more various receives and grapesque. Compare possible to imagine anything more obserous and grolesque. Compare achievements of the two men-vey, who went alone, without a bat-ship, to engage a foe of unknown agth, and 8,000 miles distant from of and re-enforcements, and Samp-who had the flower of the navy and opposed by an inferior force handi-ned by ever adverse circumstance. was opposed by an inferior force handicapped by every adverse circumstance. What comparison can there be between the two situations? Dewey did his work without an hour's delay. He sent no appeals for hetp. He stuck at no obstacles or peris. Within five hours after his agrival on the scene the deed was done. Sampson, on the other hand, sat down before Santiago in an interminable blockade, and he destroyed the Spanish fleet only when, after weeks of inaction on his part, the army under Shafter drove Cervera, practically help-less, into his waiting arms, 1And the result of all this is that Sampson gets 116,000 of booty, while Dewey receives only 35,000!

A noble and an admirable custom this, which not only offers a mean and sordid recompense to honorable men, but distributes it in such a fashion as to make the whole world blush.

HOT WEATHER.

The Old Traveler Gave the Young Man a Point or Two.

"It makes me smile to hear you fellows say this is hot," remarked the oldtime traveling man, as he sank into one of the big leather chairs and bit the tip of a fresh cigar, according to the "Well, it's hot enough for me," said the man who carries fur collars as a "side line."

"And me too," agreed the tobacco agent.

"Did you fellows ever wander out on the great American desert?" asked the old-timer when he had got his cigar going fairly well.
"No," answered the other two in concert. "Well, that's where you'll find hot "Well, that's where you'll find hot weather. I've been through that country half a dozen times in my day, and if it's any hotter in my future home I'm willing to go there out of curlosity. I've got a scar on my right side to this day that I acquired out there."

"How did you get it?" Inquired the fur collar chap.

"How did you get 117 inquired the fur collar chap.

"The sun's heat was so great that it melted my suspender buckle and the molten metal ran down my side and burned me clear to the ankle."

"Why didn't you get it off you?"

"Didn't know what it was until I went to bed in the hotel at Pawnee Junction.

Thought it was persulration."

"Well, that was pretty hot," remarked the tobacco man.
"Not as hot as it was once, though," courts. If these act as destreately and as refuctantly in awarding sinister and unworthy prizes as our government machinery usually does in paying honest debts, the cialmants will get their money about the middle of the twentleth contury, which would give Congress time to abolish a law which is disgraceful and odious and demoralizing. If the courts act with special swittness, this plunder, which should by all means belong to the government, will be partitioned very soon.

But, whether the spectacle be presented soon or late, it is one upon which thoughtful and judiclous men will gaze with shame and sorrow. The system of prize money is the survival of a barbarous and piratical age. It was introduced at a time when hations sought to sitract mercenaries and adventurers, and when the hope of spoil was the actuating motive in naval enlistment. It belongs to the days of Drake and Hawkins, of Paul Jones and soldiers of fortune generally. It has no place in this generation. If deserves the repudiation and contempt of Christendom. It sets up a false standard of duty. It establishes a degraded guide of action, it overshadows every lofty and honorable stimulus. It breeds buccancers instead of patriots.

If anything more were needed to conferm to it in the minds of thoughtful men, demo it is the was a transfer for the many the many soon, as he may be a tor egg ever was fried. the extent to which foods are built up chemically and successfully palmed off on customers as natural products.

It will be a shock to many to learn that millions of eggs which have been bought and eaten as products of the hen have no connection with that useful fow!

There are factories in England and on the continent where these "oviform frauds are produced at the rate of many thousands a day, as simply and yet mysteriously as so many sausages.

The yolk is first quickly fastioned by machinery, from a mixture of malze, starch and one or two other ingredients, colored with ochre. The yellow sphere it then placed in another 'box of mystery,' when the white part of the egg is added, into the requisite oval shape—again by machinery, it is then immered in a third var, which contains plaster of paris, and emerges with a shell which quickly assumes all the hardness and appearance of a genuine egg shell.

The process of thawing quickly reduces the contents of the shell to the consistency of a new-laid egg, and the artificial result is ready for the breakfast table, or any of the uses to which eggs are put. These "eggs" can be profushly manifactured to sell at prices ranging from 4t to 12t a dozen, and are retailed at prices which yield anything up to 100 per cent profit—London Tit-Bits.

The unsettled tune of the speculative

was relieved to-day by the announcement of further gold imports. Actual engagements were announced of $1,600,-000 and rumors were rife of very heavy additional sums which are to come this week. Rates for call loans on the exchange broke sharply to 21/2 per cent from a high point in the morning on the small transactions of 41/2 per cent. A very active buying demand developed, which was in large part from professional traders who had gone short of the market on a conviction that money rates would hold firm for a time and call money would be subject to occasional flurries from the calling of loans that would shake out large liquidation of stocks. The course of the exchange market gave warning early in the day that relief was at hand for the money market in the form of gold imports. Posted rates were marked down 150 and actual rates fell 44c, the prices for demand sterling reaching $4 84, which is easily within the gold import point. The market during the earlier part of the day was largely confined to the specialties. Sugar, Tobacco and the constituent companies of the new Federal steel company were all markedly weak. The railroads railled early in the day, but were weakened by the decline in the specialties. They offered strong resistance to decline, however, and advanced enally and quickly all through the list after midday. The local traction stocks, including Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Manhattan and Metropolitan Street Railway, were also strong. The industrial specialties recovered nearly all their losses in the afternoon on covering of shorts. Sugar was an exception. This stock opened off 21/2 per cent, allowing for the 3 per cent dividend. There was a time during the period of the general strength in the market when the stock rallied 2 per cent, but in the late dealings fell an extreme 4% per cent. There was a very determined support at and below 127, and the bears desisted from their attack. This gave time for the general market to rally again to about the best, the closing being active and firm at net gains reaching a point or over in many stocks. The grangers and Pacifics were conspicuous in the railroad list. The effect of the easier money market was in large part sentimental, as the stock market depression has been due to apprehension of future stringency rather than to actual present conditions. The conviction had gained force for several days that the carcity of money is apparent rather than real and the fact that the payments on the government loan are almost completed gives assurance of early relief from the

The slight reduction at which first transactions were effected soon gave place to firmess and be advance when it was seen how small the offerings were and how much was warded. Several items of news tolegraphed immediately after were of a buillab character and were responsible for the increased demand that put up the price. New York reported liberal continental acceptances of last night's offers and also buying orders for futures from abroad. Foreigners likewise bought here. Corn was fairly firm for a short time and then became uncompromisingly heavy with longs selling out disgustingly and shorts rubbing in the agony without offering to cover much until late in the sension. The weak feature of the market was the absence of shipping demand. Receipts were quite moderate, being much under the estimate, and not much more than half those of a year ago. December opened unchanged at 23% 629%c. The general trade in cats was stimulated by a good cash demand and small receipts.
